CARE AND MAINTENANCE OF SHADE TREES.

TREE WARDEN'S REPORT.

Expenditures,

Paid H. E. Barrows for 200 sugar maple trees..	$200 00
“ John McFarland for services.....	11 50
“ H. L. Frost and Co., for spraying 483 trees for elm leaf beetle.....	50 00
	$261 50

Appropriation	$300 00
Expended	261 50

Unexpended	$39 50

Owing to the small amount of money appropriated for this year I decided that the greater part of it had better be put into purchasing trees for the purpose of filling in where trees have died, so that we might have no vacancies when they grow up, the most of the balance being used in destroying the Elm leaf beetle, owing to existing condition of this beetle in our town and most all other towns in the State, and knowing the destruction which it works on the Elm trees, the finest shade that we have.

I would suggest that the sum of $700 be raised and appropriated for the care, maintenance and planting of shade trees the coming year.

We have on hand at present 200 large sugar maple trees which must be planted this year, also the trees are in need of a great lot of pruning, which if done now can be done much cheaper than when they get larger.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN McFARLAND,
Tree Warden of Easton.

EASTON, MASS., January 22, 1902.

We, the undersigned auditors of the town of Easton, Mass., have examined the accounts of the Selectmen, Board of Health and Tree Warden and find the same correct and properly vouched for.

WILLIAM J. TWOHIG,
OTIS E. SPOONER,
Auditors.

GEO. G. WITHINGTON.

Treasurer.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

The subscribers, Auditors of the accounts of the town of Easton, for the year ending December 31, 1901, have examined the accounts of Geo. G. Withington, treasurer, and have found the same correctly cast and properly vouched, and the Treasurer has verified to us that the cash balance of $8,195 43, due from him to the town is in his possession.

WM. J. TWOHIG,

OTIS E. SPOONER,

Auditors.

We would respectfully impress upon the citizens and others receiving orders from the different departments, upon the treasurer, the necessity for immediate collection of the same thereby enabling the departments to make their accounts correspond with the Treasurer's at the close of business, and not as has too frequently occurred in the past, be obliged to account for them one, two, or three years hence.

WILLIAM J. TWOHIG,

OTIS E. SPOONER,

Auditors.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

To the Citizens of Easton:

The Board of Health respectfully submits the following brief report. During the year 1901, $1,864 58 has been expended. This large expenditure was due to the prevalence of diphtheria in North Easton during the summer and fall, there having been thirty-eight cases.

Acting upon the suggestion of the State Board of Health, and with the approval of the physicians in town, trained nurses were employed, such furniture and other utensils as were necessary were purchased, as strict quarantine as possible was established, and all infected premises thoroughly fumigated.

The fact that there were thirty-eight cases and only two deaths goes to prove that the money was well expended, and in view of the contagious nature of this disease there seemed no other way to prevent a serious epidemic.

It is the opinion of the Board that in case of future outbreak of this or any other contagious disease that the cases could be treated in a more satisfactory manner and at a much less expense in a small hospital, and that the prompt removal of cases as soon as reported, and the immediate fumigation of the premises, would lessen the danger of further spread of the disease.

The new street in North Easton has taken a large part of the time of the road department this year. In making our estimate of the expense of this street we did not plan for a macadam covering, or new fence and for the Ledge work which we were obliged to do. We feel that although the expense has been large, you have a street which looks well, and will always be a great convenience for all time to come.

We were obliged to locate the old crusher plant in North Easton, and as the crusher frame had been broken for a long time, we did not think it worth moving. We have saved all of the good parts, which can be put into a new frame when needed. By the breaking of the pitman of the crusher at the Mayhall pit we came short of broken stone for some work we had planned to do this season. We have a large quantity of broken stone which we hoped would go into a state road on Washington street, but we tried hard and failed to get the Highway Commission to make it a state road this year, but shall try again next year.

We had our road scraper nearly 20 years ago, and great improvements have been made in these machines, so much so that we have lately bought a new one for use in the spring.

Our attention has also been called to portable crusher plants, all complete, which are now being put on the market. From what is said of them, we think the time will soon come when it will be economy for this town to have one.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

To the Citizens of Easton:

We submit our report for the year 1901, and also call attention to the report of the Superintendent of Schools.

STATISTICS.

Number of pupils of all ages enrolled in the School Registers	1,070
Number enrolled between the age of seven and fourteen	650
Number enrolled over fifteen years of age.....	74
Number enrolled under five years of age.....	75
Number of children in town, September 1, 1901, between the ages of five and fifteen years of age	921
Number of pupils attending the High School.....	125

Notwithstanding the fact that our appropriations were reduced last year to $20,000, and some bills for coal for previous years were presented for the first time and paid, we have managed to operate the schools without exceeding the above amount. It was very close work, however, and in view of the fact that such a thing is not good policy, as many unforeseen contingencies are likely to arise, we request an additional amount for 1902, as will be shown in the schedule below.

Our principal reason for asking this is on account of the Commercial Course established in the High School, and which meets with such favor, that it will become necessary to have an assistant in this department. While this will not require the full amount requested in addition, extra text books and articles pertaining to this course will, and in view of the fact that the High School has 125 pupils it can readily be seen that our necessary expenses will be larger than ever before, outside of repairs and other items for which appropriations are asked.

We therefore ask you to raise and appropriate the following sums for the support of the schools for the year 1902:

For salaries, fuel and care of buildings.....	$17,300
“ text books, furniture and transportation.....	2,200
“ repairs	1,000
“ supplies and sundries.....	1,000
Total	$21,500

This will make an increase over last year and is applied as follows:

Salaries, fuel and care of buildings.....	$300
Text books, furniture and transportation.....	200
Total	$500

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM H. AMES, Chairman,
HEMAN HOWARD, Secretary.
LINCOLN S. DRAKE,
School Committee of Easton.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Below is appended the list of school resources and the bills approved and ordered paid by the School Committee for the fiscal year, 1901. The balance remaining is barely sufficient to pay the teachers for the months of January and February and what other bills demand immediate attention.

Notice the exceptionally large fuel bills paid this year. The reason for this is set forth in the Committee's report of this year, and also in the report of last year, in the financial statement.

At the date of this report there are practically no outstanding bills against the School Department of the town of Easton.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Committee of Easton:

The Superintendent of Schools hereby submits, for the year 1901, his second annual report, the sixteenth in the series rendered by superintendents of this town.

While it may be safely claimed that much earnest, faithful work has been done since our last annual report and marked improvement along many lines is clearly manifest, still all those in close touch with the needs of our schools fully recognize that much remains to be done.

In every progressive community one improvement always suggests other needed changes, thus making the time when we may rest, feeling that our work is finished, an ever receding point to be sought but never to be reached.

This year has witnessed many changes in our school work, especially in North Easton.

At the close of the school year in June, after twenty-four years of conscientious work Mr. Lamprey gave up the principalship of the Oliver Ames High School. To speak of his record here seems superfluous, as the fact of his long term of service testifies more eloquently than words of the place he fills in the history of this town and in the hearts of the large number of people who have been benefitted by his forceful teaching. Of his successor, Mr. Tirrell, we expected much and thus far we have not been disappointed. Now that he has passed the trial period, we may safely affirm that the affairs of our High School are in the way of a continued successful administration.

The High School course of study adopted by you during the summer vacation is proving very successful. Comparatively little friction has appeared in carrying out its provisions so radically different from those of the one in use last year. We feel absolutely sure of its adaptability to fit thoroughly for business or college.

Not all who enter upon these courses can be expected to be successful. To the studious, careful, and painstaking only, can we promise the high fruition of a good course of study perfectly mastered. The complaint often heard, that we are working some of our less robust pupils too hard is sometimes, doubtless, made with reason. To obviate this difficulty your Superintendent of Schools and the Principal of the High School are in entire accord in recommending a change so that one may use as much time as may be necessary to complete the full course. This plan would require the earning of a fixed number of points before a diploma could be granted. To gain these points one may use from three to six years as ability or inclination may dictate. This plan would make it possible for the slow or delicate to receive a diploma, meaning just as much as that of their more robust companion, although it may take more years to earn it.

To make our High School a success in the broadest sense of the word more teaching force has been found necessary. The Commercial teacher will now give his entire time to this work. As it has been, but little time could be given to the lower grades.

If three teachers have been necessary in the past with an attendance of less than one hundred, certainly there is need of four in a school of one hundred twenty-five, with the wider scope of our extended courses.

This is not asking more than other towns are providing. In fact many places in our state with even smaller schools than ours are employing five teachers for their High Schools. The change made by you last summer, by means of which the assistant system was abolished in the graded schools of North Easton and each teacher given a separate room has fully modernized the conditions there and, I am confident, better results will be accomplished this year than last, although the length of the fall term was so materially shortened by the prevalence of diphtheria.

Personally I am much pleased with this arrangement. The confusion of large numbers and the disturbance consequent to the passing from room to room are conditions of the past. This adds to the available time for work nearly, if not quite twenty-five per cent.

The remaining schools of Easton, I believe to be in a very healthy condition. I am pleased to state that, with the exception of North Easton, no changes in the teaching force has been made. Miss E. A. Leach who, for nine years, did faithful service as a teacher, resigned last June to enter upon new duties, which I hope may be as profitable and as pleasant to all concerned as was her service in connection with the schools.

The condition of our school buildings is generally satisfactory, but in one case there is emphatic need of immediate change. I refer to the Centre School. Although this building was enlarged recently to a seating capacity of fifty-four, yet this year the attendance of sixty-four has necessitated seating of several at a table in the room, already overcrowded. It will be a pleasure to assist in every way in my power to remedy this difficulty. I beg to suggest that some means be devised to make two independent rooms with corresponding grades, and that two plans are easily available for the accomplishment of this desirable object.

While the conditions at So. Easton are not so urgent for immediate change, still the two rooms there have been filled to overflowing this year and extra seats were placed in the lower room, causing an undesirable crowding, barely to accommodate the large number of children in that locality. If more are in attendance the coming spring term, as is likely, we shall have to face the problem of too little seating capacity in that school building. Three rooms with the necessary regrading would be a great improvement for this school. It is possible that changes might be made to compass this without altering the exterior of the building. Other school buildings through the town will demand very little attention beyond interior cleaning, tinting and whitening.

In my report last year the need of tinting the walls and ceilings in the Oliver Ames High School was mentioned. That need at present is still more urgent.

I also called attention at that time to need of repairs and changes in the graded school building at North Easton. These were made during the long summer vacation, so far as the exterior and two rooms were concerned. Some repairs on the floors, tinting the walls in some parts and varnishing the interior finish are still needed to place this building in thorough repair.

The tower on this building, which many have been led to believe was in a decayed and dangerous condition, I am happy to report, after the most careful inspection by expert carpenters, is pronounced as sound and strong as when it was first constructed.

We are annually met with one condition, which, while it may be small, is a source of great annoyance to the lowest grade primary teachers. Our school year commences in September and at that time our classes are formed from promotions made in June. Hence children entering school for the first time at the beginning of the winter or spring term are not in position to advance with the classes. This is especially true in connection with the spring term. Pupils coming at this time are not materially advanced thereby, but simply give the teachers the additional work to entertain as best they can while they must give their best endeavor to fit the ones who have been in the entire year for the near promotion. This statement applies only to those who are just entering our first grade. I respectfully urge your honorable body to use every proper means within your power to make September the time for entering the lowest classes and not grant, unless absolutely necessary, to any beginners the privilege of entering later than the commencement of the winter term. As the Kindergarten expects and welcomes the little ones at the beginning of any term, I would suggest emphatically the propriety of sending these children there for the term mentioned, although by virtue of their age they may be technically entitled to enter the regular grades. Such a course would work hardship to none and would make it possible for our primary teachers to accomplish better results. The most pleasant relations have existed for the entire year between superintendent and teachers. The work has gone on very satisfactorily. Improvement must however, be made in certain directions before we can be satisfied.

A well founded demand has been strenuously voiced of late by the business world for better preparation by the graduates of our schools to enable them to perform the simple number work incident to ordinary business requirements with accuracy and reasonable speed. This call comes to us as well as to other towns of the Commonwealth. To meet this requirement I believe that radical changes must be made in existing number methods which have resulted in making this branch, so important to the business community, the weakest in all our lines of work.

Industrials now hold so prominent a place in our school curriculum that more than passing notice is necessary. The value of this or that department is often questioned by honest inquirers. But little of all we learn is of direct practical value in the every day pursuits of life. Nevertheless whatever tends to strengthen the mind, to make one more careful, neat, orderly, systematic, observant and thoughtful, is of great worth in all that pertains to the developement of the well poised and useful citizen. Beyond the purely utilitarian side of drawing, sloyd, sewing and cooking the great value of this line of activity must be sought in the fact that neatness, order, exactness and system are developed and the motor areas of the brain are brought into harmony with the thought and made to act in obedience thereto. These qualities distinguish the skilled mechanic from the unskilled. Perhaps these considerations are sufficient to justify the expenditure of the time used in these branches of our work.

While all the industrial branches mentioned above have special value, perhaps Sloyd has the strongest hold on those who have investigated most thoroughly.

I have asked the various special teachers to make any suggestions they deemed important. As Miss Lundgren voices my opinions so well, I am inclined to quote her entire. "The lack of training in mechanical drawing is sadly manifest in the Sloyd work. The boys should be taught to represent an object through an accurate working drawing, at the same time as they learn to make the model in the Sloyd room.

This, however, as has been before suggested, should be done in the class room, not in the Sloyd room, or in the short time allotted to practical work. Such a correlation would, no doubt, strengthen both departments.

There is a chance for correlation between the Sloyd and language, at least, in the lower grades. If the boys should be called upon to write something occasionally about what they are doing in the Sloyd room, I am sure they would take great interest in so doing, and they would perhaps pay more attention to their work, so as to be able to write about it afterward. The Sloyd lesson comes too seldom to the fifth and sixth grades. Since both classes cannot have the work once a week I would suggest that the fifth grade wait another year and give the sixth grade a lesson once a week. I am convinced they would in this way learn more in one year than they now do in two. Cardboard, or paper work might be substituted in the fifth grade. This lays a good foundation for tool work, as it trains the children in the use of the ruler, and in accuracy and attention."

Drawing is a term embracing so wide a range of significance that one may well pause to consider thoughtfully its place in our school system. Shall we regard it merely in the light of fitting the pupils to enjoy life more fully and to interpret the beautiful in nature and art more intelligently, or shall we rather approach it from the more practical side? The one would lead to the study of pure art, while the other would emphasize geometric and mechanical drawing. Neither alone is wholly desirable in our schools, but the happy blending of both so that our pupils may have as wide a range of vision as it is possible to give them. That our art teacher has this broad conception may be inferred from what I now quote from her communication to me.

"One can truthfully say that no subject taught in our public schools has made such strides as that of drawing during the past four or five years. Today the instructor of drawing has other motives besides that of simply teaching the pupil to draw. The aim is constantly toward a free and individual expression, thereby giving the child greater possession of himself. We cannot say that this or that branch of any subject is more practical than another and therefore we will give it a greater amount of time. Tastes acquired in childhood are not easily outgrown and for that reason we must endeavor to teach all topics with equal thought and allowance of time, presenting each in so interesting a manner as never to allow the question to arise in the mind of the High School graduate 'For what am I best fitted?' "

The subjects undertaken during the past year have been color instruction, or refinement of the color sense and appreciation of harmonious coloring, decorative design, perspective elements, pictorial drawing in single objects and grouping, picture study, structural elements, including type solids and geometric figures and structural design. Latterly we have put more time on working drawings.

The subjects outlined above suggest the broad and comprehensive scope attempted, and so far, very encouraging results have been attained, due to the interest manifested both by the pupils and the regular teachers."

It is always a source of pleasure to visit the sewing room to notice the eager, earnest mind working out in connection with the utilitarian problem the greater ones of mind control over matter—of obedience to the call for the best in its power and finally of the moral worth of doing something in the best manner possible under the supervision of skilled, experienced and conscientious teachers.

The sewing teachers suggest "That better results might be obtained if each pupil could have the kind of work best fitted to her. While some do have, others are obliged to work on material from which they receive little or no benefit. That work sent to the school should be done entirely in the sewing room, and not be sent there to be finished, or begun there to be taken home to be completed." They ask the co-operation of the parents in the matter, feeling that the school would be very much benefitted if the above suggestions were acted upon."

The teachers have returned the amount of work accomplished in this department this year, which makes a very creditable showing considering that the fall term was shortened four weeks by the prevailing epidemic early in the school year.

It is a source of regret that, owing to a lack of interest, the School Committee felt obliged to discontinue the Cooking school. Had it been possible to have arranged for it on any other day than Saturday this department would still be in operation. Too few could be prevailed upon to attend regularly. Of Miss Mitchell and her work here, we can speak only words of commendation. The good she accomplished while teaching here cannot be expressed in words. Wherever she may be she carries with her the good will and best wishes of a host of friends.

The Kindergarten certainly is worthy of a large place in the hearts of all lovers of children. Could we all imbibe the real spirit of Froebel and carry out his plans and methods in the same intelligent, thoughtful and successful way in which he did and keep the same spirit alive throughout the entire course, much good would result. Methods must be changed at every stage of the child's development, to meet the growing needs of the pupil, for he sees things at every step of ascent from his new vantage ground with enlarged and improved vision. To carry Kindergarten methods beyond the proper age recognized by authorities on this subject is sure to result in a flabby non-resistant mental condition, poorly preparing one for the sterner side of life.

In our Kindergarten, I am led to believe, from frequent visits and careful inquiry, that intelligent methods are used, at the right age to insure the very best results. The question may naturally arise, are we in position to make the most of the good training these little ones have enjoyed at so tender and impressionable an age. It is easier to mar than to mend. Let us approach then, this trust with reverence, as befits the one who is handling sacred things.

At the suggestion of the Principal of this school I desire to urge upon the parents the advantage of keeping the little ones in as constant attendance as is possible. To lose a few days may seem a small thing, but in the Kindergarten work there are certain plans to be followed or the best results will not be obtained.

I think it may be safely stated that excellent advancement has resulted from the labors of our writing teacher. This is more manifest in the schools outside of No. Easton, where up to September, 1901, no special system had been followed, but where most were using the vertical writing. The committee decided at that time, I believe wisely, to make the slant system uniform throughout the town. For a long time the advancement was slow owing to the effort necessary to make so decided a change. The results this year so far fully demonstrate the wisdom of the committee in placing a competent man over this important branch of our school work. Marked improvement is also shown at North Easton, and the good work done in previous years has been ably carried forward by Mr. West.

The additional work, placed upon our Commercial teacher by our extended course in that department, has made it impossible for him to give all the time desired to the supervision of penmanship. Arrangements have now been made to obviate this difficulty.

It is not necessary for much to be said in reference to the work of our music teacher. The results speak for themselves. The suggestion that, in the matter of promotions, music should have some place, meets my approval. Let every pupil be required in this as in other studies to do his best. When the right one can be found, I presume it may be desirable to make a change in singing books in the High School. I quote from Mr. Shepardson as follows:

"There has been no change of importance during the year neither in the books used, nor in the methods of instruction. There has been progress in all the schools, perhaps more rapid progress than during any previous year, both in sight reading and in musical notation. The High School has made progress also, but not in so marked a degree as the other schools, its work is still far below what it ought to be. A new book is very much needed for this school; I have several books under examination and hope to be able soon to recommend one which will meet the need. With the changes that have been made in the classes throughout the schools, we expect to be able to bring the work of the different grades more nearly up to the standard. I wish to suggest that in the matter of promotions music should have some place, and that no child should be permitted to pass from his room without being able to read the music required in his own grade."

Since our last annual report we have been the recipients of much substantial aid and encouragement. The excellent results shown by our school band are living monuments to its generous founder and supporter. We certainly feel a pardonable pride in the commendable attainments of the young men who make up this band. We also have a very promising orchestra of young ladies in connection with the High School. Everything has been provided for them in this work that intelligent forethought and good judgement could conceive. The instructors are all that could be desired, as is evidenced by the rapid advancement and unabated interest of all concerned. To all who have received the benefits of this most valuable training, the name of Mrs Anna C. Ames will ever be associated with all that is true, pure and ennobling, and will continue an inspiration to right living and noble endeavor for long years to come.

As an encouragement, when we started our commercial course, the Oliver Ames High School was presented by Mrs. Ames with a fine new Remington typewriting machine, for which we are very grateful. We also received another Remington and two Smith Premier machines from another source where the donor desires not to be named.

A most excellent Season Apparatus, received from Mr. Ames, a member of our School Committee, has proven very useful. We desire to make appreciative acknowledgement for all these material aids to our school work.

The O. A. H. S. Athletic Association embraces in its membership all the High School boys. James Sweeney is President and F. D. Callahan, Secretary and Treasurer. A number of matches have been played by the Football team resulting favorably for us in the majority of cases. This is also true in regard to base ball. In basket ball the record is not quite so satisfactory. On the whole there is an enthusiastic athletic spirit and as a result we hope to find our young men of the future with healthy minds in well developed bodies. Mr. Trowbridge, the director, seems well qualified for the work and without doubt, when the new gymnasium is ready, so that systematic training may be given, we shall see more of the good resulting from this line of excellent training.

Under the direction of Miss Maude E. McCarthy, teacher, our girls of the High School have four very successful basket ball teams. The rosy cheeks, elastic step and buoyant, healthy appearance of these young participants testify to the good results gained from this exercise. Again we are pleased to extend our thanks to Mrs. Anna C. Ames who, by her liberality, makes it possible for our students to enjoy such exceptional privileges. Miss McCarthy is very acceptable, as teacher, to all the young ladies of the school.

The new course of study for the Oliver Ames High School forms a part of this report and I earnestly urge the patrons of the schools to give it more than passing notice. That it is only tentative thus far and will undoubtedly need changes, as experience dictates, we fully recognize. On the other hand with its provisions substantially carried out the outcome will be a liberal High School education, we feel sure.

It is a great pleasure to be able to say at this time that during the year 1901 not one circumstance has occurred to mar the very pleasant relations existing among Committee, Superintendent and Teachers.

Accept my thanks for your kindness and cordial support.

Respectfully submitted,

O. C. EVANS,

Superintendent of Schools.
